thus completing the round of performances in this city, where it so auspiciously commenced. The existing engagement of Mile. Parepa in Europa renders it imperatively necessary that this renowned Prima Donna leave in the nettrip of the steamer Sooth, bearing with her the remembrance of a succession of triumphs, which, even in her brilliant European career, have been suparalleled; it may be believed that nothing but the actual need of keeping heaving experiences. Mr. Bateman may with perfect moderation assert that there has never been a more legitimate success achieved by any concert company in this country. The people and press of every city which his artists have visited have view with each other is the heartiest manifestations of approval and support. The verdict which was so unanimously recorded in New York has in every instance been most cordulally endorsed, that vertilet being that Mile. Parepa is one of the greatest vocal artists ever heard in this country, that Mr. Levy is the most wonderful virtuoso on the cornet now living; and that Cart Ross is a most exquisite and charming violinist. It was not possible to anticipate so perfect a success, and Mr. Bateman, in making his contracts, was compelled, as he announced at the time, to stipulate that his artists should return in time for the European spring season. Mr. Levy sails on the 10th of January; a fortnight later, Mile. Pareps and Herr Cart Ross follow in the Scotia. These concerts, then, are positively the last that can be given.

To add to their brilliancy and variety, Mr. Bateman effected an engagement with Mr. S. B. MILLIS.
